More meaningful than a four-month supply of diapers, and more lasting than a new piece of furniture, the gift of a mother's thoughts and wisdom can remind her daughter of the special bond of love between mother and child. This journal and scrapbook allows new grandmothers the chance to collect and preserve her first memories and experiences of mothering in an elegant keepsake. By filling in answers to such questions as "When you first told me you were going to have a baby I thought..." and "I thought you were the greatest baby in the world because..." and by pasting in old photographs, certificates, medical records, and other keepsakes, any mother can create an enduring record of one of the most important events of her life to pass on to her daughter as she experiences the birth of her own first child.
