Prepared Lindsay K. Mason

When Vincent begins his internship in a funeral home prep room, he quickly realizes he is in for more than he bargained. The staff members guide him through embalming, cremation, and restorative art, but are insensitive to his awe and trepidation. After all, they have their own problems: Dannie decides she wants to leave her boyfriend, but contemplates getting pregnant before she goes, Raul struggles with life after divorce, especially when his ex-wife asks the unthinkable of him, Sam is unable to begin a romantic relationship until he can put his family disownment behind him, and Walter is a spiritual leader who learns no good deed goes unpunished. In the back rooms of the mortuary, they help each other face their issues, sorting through bitterness, love, science, and faith. Through working with the dead, they are reminded of what really matters in life.
