You want to dress well, but you have no clue how to go about it.

You never grew up with much interest in personal style, and you never developed a natural instinct for how you should dress. And even though you can find a ton of information online, it confuses and overwhelms you more than it helps you understand.

And it sucks, doesn't it?

Because you're a smart man, and you should be able to figure this out. You just have no clue where to start.

You have no clue what to focus on.

But you know what?

You Are Not Alone

You're not the only guy who struggles with figuring this stuff out.

Many men do.

In fact, just a few years back, I struggled as well.

I was a terrible dresser.

And when I decided to step up from hoodies and graphic tees to something more respectable, I had a hard time figuring out how to dress well.

But despite all my early failures, I kept trying, and eventually things started to click in my head. I had to try out lots of terrible fashion tips before I found the nuggets that actually worked, but eventually, I developed a much better dress sense. Just see for yourself:

I could feel ashamed of the many years spent dressed like a slob. But instead, I feel proud.

Because I had zero style sense. I had to learn how to be a well-dressed man. And when I consider where I came from and where I am now, I'm proud of how far I've come.

And any man can do what I did, no matter where they're at now.

You can do it too.

And with some guidance, you can do it a lot quicker than I did.

The Beginner's Rules to Dressing Better

You can figure this out.

You can improve that dress sense of yours.

And once things start clicking in your head, it will actually become easy. You just need a bit of guidance at first, so you're focused on the right things.

So I took the most important lessons that I've learned over the years and put them into this article.
