What's up with Antimatter? (But what's it all mean, Albert?) Michael Savins

The standard model is based upon predictions in General Relativity but stops far short of where those predictions lead.

This interpretation of General Relativity predicts a Cyclic Universe and it does it without having to invent anything new like dark matter or dark energy.

To compensate for its lack of inventiveness, it includes a little dark humour but not to worry as it doesn't react with anything..
